Let's Start!

A dash of this and a bit of that.

Learning Outcome

Identify and describe personal and regional eating habits and cooking in a range of communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about quantities and amounts.
- I can describe how to prepare food.
- I can express what is necessary.

Ask your partner:

- Do you like cooking?
- What kinds of dishes can you make?

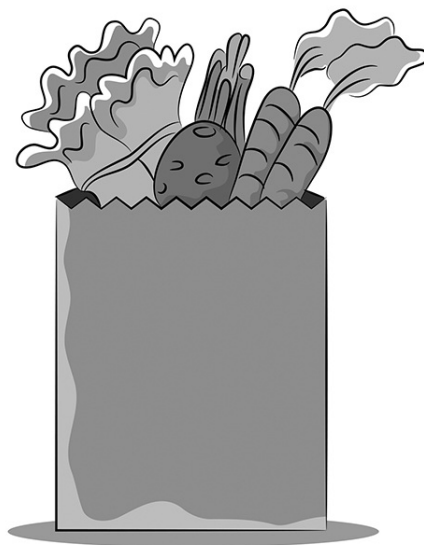

Let's Explore!

It smells good in here.

* When they arrive for dinner, guests often compliment the host or hostess on how "good" the cooking "smells".

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Vanessa: Hey, Peter. Welcome.

Peter: Hi, Vanessa. It sure smells good in here.

Vanessa: Hey, what have you got there?

Peter: Oh, here is a dozen pieces of naan.

Vanessa: Thank you. And what's this?

Peter: A pint of plain yogurt in case the vindaloo is too spicy for someone.

Vanessa: Oh, how thoughtful of you! I'd better put that in the fridge.

Peter: Sally is bringing a quart of mango ice cream.

Vanessa: Fabulous. Oh, you guys are awesome.

Peter: Thanks so much for having all of us over for dinner.

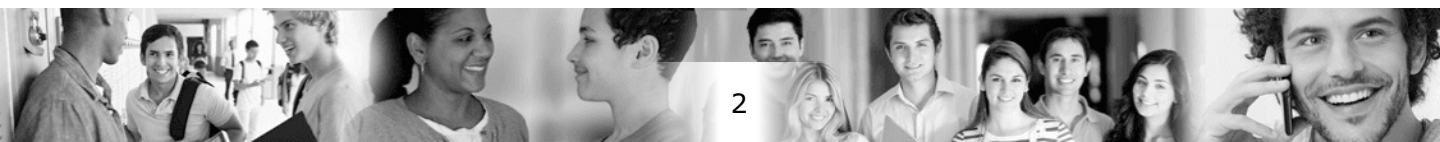

Vanessa: Oh, I love cooking for other people. The timing is good since John's home. I hope he brings Sandra.

Peter: I'd love to meet her too. Hey, can I help with anything?

Vanessa: Well, in fact, would you mind chopping up some onions?

Peter: No problem. I'd be happy to.

Vanessa: I've got to sauté them before adding them to the sauce. Then I'll need to let the sauce simmer.

Let's practice!

Are you a good *cook?

* "Cook" is also used as a noun for a person, not cooker.

Instructions: Read each sentence, and circle all the verbs related to cooking.

1. Would you mind chopping some onions?
2. I've got to saute the onions before adding them to the sauce.
3. I'll need to let the sauce simmer.
4. I have to stir the sauce slowly while it's cooking.

Let's practice!

Let's get the pot on the stove.

Instructions: Fill in the blanks with the most appropriate option to correctly complete the sentence.

Learning Points

How Much or How Many?

You use quantifiers to express quantities and amounts. There are various quantifiers you can use to express a small amount or a large amount.

You use quantifiers with both count and non-count nouns. You can use all of the quantifiers below with both count and non-count nouns.

Quantifier	Meaning
more	a larger number/amount
less/fewer	a smaller number/amount
no/none	0, nothing
any /not any	ask about a number or amount/say there is no
some	a small number/amount
a lot of/lots of	a very large number/amount
plenty of	more than you need
enough	as much as you need

Measurements (Nouns)	Amount
pound	a little less than half a kilogram at 454 g
pint	a little less than half a liter
quart	a little less than one liter
dozen	12 pieces
slice	a cut piece from a whole
case	a paper case of 6, 12 or 24 bottles

Examples:

- Vanessa needs to cook a pound of chicken for the meal.
- Sally brought a quart of ice cream.
- Peter brought a half dozen pieces of naan.
